Judge Barrett's Significant Charge To-Day.

Did He Refer to Certain of Our Aldermen?

Work Cut Out for This Month's Special Grand Jury.

Why two grand juries were summoned to sit simultaneously this month was demonstrated when the extra jury was charged by Judge Barrett in the Court of Oyer and Terminer this morning.

His remarks are liable to create quite a stir in the present Aldermanic Board. Charges or hints of corruption, he said, had been made by individuals and in the public prints. He trusted that their investigation of these charges of attempted bribery would prove them unfounded, In advising them with reference to the scope of the inquiry which they should make into these charges, Judge Barrett read Section 72 of the Penal Code and said that an official who asks for a bribe is equally guilty with one who has received the price of his infamy.

There could be no doubt in the mind of any who heard the charge. Judge Barrett was referring to members of the rett was referring to members of the present Board of Aldermen and the charges which have resulted from their recent action on the application of the Fourth avenue surface road to run electric motors.

He referred to the inability, through lack of time, of prior grand juries to properly investigate the matter of frauds at the last election, and directed them to probe the matter to the bottom.

He also advised them to assist in disposing of the 5,000 Excise cases which have accumulated in the District Attorney's office.

Above all else, he charged them to secrecy and said that he did not want to hear of any information regarding their action or failure to act leaking from the Grand Jury room.

They were sitting in the new Court House.

Such action on the part of the convention would be suicidal. Worse than that, it would be stultifying. WATING THE RED BANDANNA. The Democracy Indulges in a Little Old Fashioned Enthusiasm.

COL. FELLOWS'S CAMPAIGN SPEECH.

to the Fort Wayners Democracy's Arrival. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD,

St. Louis, June 4.-Col. John R. Fellows has made the maiden speech of the campaign of 1888. Last night the County Democracy train stopped at Fort Wayne, and the band of 300 good and true men swarmed into the little dining-room, to the wonderment and dismay of the girl waiters.

Before the train started on again the Fort Wayners, who had assembled to the number of several hundred, clamorously insisted that somebody should make a speech to them. Col. Fellows had succeeded in throwing off the hoarseness that had bothered him since his address in the Kerr trial, and consented to step into the breach. From the platform of a car he told the gathering that this was to be a great year for the Democracy of the

to be a great year for the Democracy of the country.

They would sweep everything no matter who was the nominee. There would be no such close shave as there was four years ago. They could depend upon New Yoyk he assured them. The hatchet had been buried exceedingly deep between the Tammanyites and the County Democracy, and instead of a slim thousand or so of a mojerity New York State would give at least 70,000 majority for the nominee of the St. Louis Convention.

The gathering greeted this announcement with joyous acclamations and the train rumbled on.

It was 10.30 this morning by the local clocks when it reached St. Louis. The Hendricks Club, of St. Louis, was here to receive them.

A suggestion of the same sultry weather was also there. But it was a hearty welcome that the delegation received, although much of the big crowd that had filled the depot during the morning hours had been led away by the procession of the Tammany braves who had got in a couple of hours previously. However, those who remained met with their receptions. No such thing of beauty had perhaps ever been seen in St. Louis as the sight that the sturdy men of Col. Micheal C. Murphy's brigade presented when they were drawn up in line.

They had disregarded the blouses, lawn tennis shirts and other negligé apparel that they had knocked around in the train, and blossomed out in their beautiful light spring suits, with high white hats, tan-colored gloves and resplendent blue and gold badges that announced that their allegiance was first due to Col. Murphy. They were true blue men of the County Democracy.

Richard A. Cunningham, with his energetic aids, Wm. N. Penny and Wm. R. Mitchell, had arranged for the marshalling of the forces in the way that would most impress the St. Louis multitude, and when they finally got into line they unquestionably did make a fine picture, with a brass band at their head.

ST. LOUIS CAPTURED

By the Enthusiastic Legions of the National Democracy. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

Sr. Louis, June 4 .- When the people of St. Louis awoke this morning they heard the beating of drums and the blare of trumpets announcing the arrival of the Democratic hosts from every State in the Union. Delegations, clubs and legions began pouring into the city before the sun shone on the muddy waters of the Mississippi, and every half hour since uniformed battalions of the Democracy have been marching to their headquarters and are still arriving.

St. Louis has been handed over to the Democracy of the nation, and old residents are astonished at the sight of the immense

There is a much larger attendance present than was anticipated, and the throngs will be increased before evening.

There are more clubs and bands here than there was at the Chicago Convention of 1884. There is a noticeable absence of Government officials, although a stray collector of rev enue and an occasional postmaster are to be seen among the party followers.

The West is represented by more officeholders than the East, but "pernicious activity" officials are keeping in the back ground.

There are very few prominent employees of Uncle Sam in attendance, and even National Committeemen Smalley, of Vermont

THURMAN OR GRAY?

The Leading Topic of Discussion at St. Louis This Morning.

SPECIAL TO THE WORLD. St. Louis, June 4 .- " Who. Thurman or Gray?" This is the question that is heard everywhere. The Indiana cohorts are working with great energy for Gov. Gray, and Hoosier orators are visiting the headquarters of the various States. The logic is Without Gray we will have a hard time to carry Indiana. If Indiana is lost, Cleveland will be defeated."

Senator Voorhees has taken off his coat for Gray, and will make the speech placing him in nomination.

These factors are confident that the Thur man boom will go to pieces before to-morrow. The friends of Gov. Gray say this morning that they have made a break in the Thurman

The few Democrats who hold offices and who are in St. Louis to-day are looked upon as wonders. They are receiving the congratulations of their unlucky brethren. The delegates and the camp followers will not settle down to businesi before evening.

Aside from the Vice-Presidency the talk is about the construction of the platform in reference to the tariff issue.

In this matter conservative counsel is likely to prevail. It is probable that there will be no specific mention of the Mills bill in view of the fact that it is being amended every day and that there is no telling how much further it may be changed. Besides on a full view of the situation, it is not thought advisable to give offense to Randall and his following in the North and West. and the friends of protective proclivities in the South.

President Cleveland's name is very seldom mentioned. Any one would suppose that the convention was called to nominate a candidate for Vice-President. TAMMANY'S ARRIVAL

A Great Crowd Greets the New York PERCIAL TO THE WORLD,

Trains crowding on the long bridge kept Tammany long waiting at the gates of the city, but with every minute of delay the crowd in the Union depot grew. Delegations in regalia of all sorts came, disem-barked and reached away, but still the people still looked for Tammany.

At 9.30 two long trains came bowling into the station. The picture of Cleveland on the engine's front, the streamer that decked the baggage cars, the flags and banners told that here was Tammany. Bands that had baen hired to welcome other organizations loosed the music, and cheers that made the big depot ring hailed the advent of these Tammany had risen early, washed, dressed and prinked for this incoming. They had donned their white vests, polished their shoes and hats and put roses in their button-holes. Fresh as daisys they filed from the depot, while the crowd, pressing back to let them pass, yelled loud and long.

Orator Dougherty was as cool as a cucumber. He wore a gray sack suit and soft hat, and strode along with the gait of a lord. Index fingers pointed him out, and people stretched their necks to see the man of Tammany who had come, West to nominate Cleveland.

Ed. Stokes and Roswell P. Flower, in hor-ror of newspaper skirmishers, sought a quiet exit and preceded the main body to the hotel, where they made arrangements for their re

Tammany having got all in line marched up the hill and around the corner and away to the Southern Hotel. Each and every delegate had his hotel ticket in his pocket and his vitals feeling that he could eat if

School of Languages in Philadelphia, was a prisoner at the Jefferson Market Court this morning
He was arrested, or rather met, at the Newark Depot by Detective Sergt. Vallely, of the Central Office, through an appointment made by Wm. G. Boyd, who aided the detective.

The charge against "Prof," Miller is that on March 10 he gave to August Marahall, in Frankfort street, a note drawn on Mr. Bell, of 5 Oxford street, Brooklyn, for $68.65 on the Bedford Bank of Brooklyn, for $68.65 on the Bedford Bank of Brooklyn, which was fraudulent. Two days later, which was fraudulent. Two days later, which was the day of the blizzard, he was married to Miss Gussie Block at 142 Madison street. He intended to go to Hicksville, where he had classes in music and languages, but was snowed in for two days. Then he left the house, and could not be found.

It was discovered that he had stolen all his wife's jewelry. He had also taken a diamond cross valued at $175, a breastpin, $60, and a pair of earrings, $75, belonging to Mrs. Cauvin, a sister of his newly made wife.

The case was given to Inspector Byrnos, and it was learned that the Professor, after leaving his bride, went to Humbert, the has manufacturer, on the Bowery, next to the London Theatre, and there gave Mr. Humbert's son a music lesson. When he left he took with him Mr. Humbert's hat and umbrella, and these he had in court with him. The Professor was traced to Philadelphia through a personal in The World.

The Professor told an Evenno World reporter that he did not find his wife to be what she ought to have been and he did take her jewelry to go to California, He was reamanded.

WAS MINGO JACK INNOCENT?

Kearney's Confrasion of Miss Herbert's Murder Causes a Sensation. FREEHOLD, N. J., June 4.—There is much excitement in this place and neighboring towns over the confession made by Richard Kearney, the negro who is under sentence of crime, but admits that he made the criminal assault on Miss Angeline Herbert, at Estontown, in March, 1886, for which the old negro, Mingo Jack, was lynched by a party of indigenant critisans. nant citizens.

When Kearney was arrested for the Purcell When Kearney was arrested for the Purcell crime a report was circulated that he was known to be the assailant of Miss Herbert and that Mingo Jack died an innocent man, a victim of a brutal murder. The report was generally discredited and nothing came of it at the time. There are now many persons, particularly those identified with the lynching party, who take no stock in Kearney's confession.

They say that if Mingo Jack was really in-confession.

They say that if Mingo Jack was really innocent Miss Herbert was principally to blame for his untimely death, as she positively identified him as the man who assaulted her. Their principal reason for discrediting Keasnoy's confession is the fact that Miss Herbert never hinted that Kearney was her assailant,
